

DESPAIR

"I can relate. I felt like I was standing on the edge of a cliff, getting ready to fall to my knees, crying like I was at the end. The only difference was that my sky wasn't black, it was a beautiful clear blue, giving me hope. As my eyes cleared up I saw another cliff, and a bridge leading to a way out of my despair."

