

DENIAL

"In the beginning it was easy, until everything just got harder. I always thought life was easy. Then reality hit. I slowly went into denial, trying hard not to accept you - the truth. I tried to hide what you are: the feeling, the pain. I tried to find the right way to push all of this away. All of the things I tried to push off the cliff were me. All me. That is the truth. Push it away and you are pushing yourself away."

